From the 2011 CCSSE data, the aspects of lowest student engagement were reviewed. The Active and Collaborative Learning aspect ranked at the very bottom of the lowest aspects. Since active and collaborative learning can be achieved through a co-op learning environment, this quantitative data concurs with the external feedback (qualitative data) from advisory committees.